

TrueNorth Steel: Qualified and experienced manufacturer and supplier of corrugated metal pipe underground detention systems.

TrueNorth Steel is a qualified and experienced manufacturer and supplier of corrugated metal pipe underground detention systems. Corrugated metal pipe detention systems are manufactured in accordance with project specifications and design requirements, ASTM and AASHTO Standards as well as those of the National Corrugated Steel Pipe Association. Systems are manufactured at one of three of our state of the art facilities in Fargo, ND; Huron, SD; or Blaine, MN.

TrueNorth Steel maintains and utilizes a Quality Management System to ensure that corrugated metal pipe and corrugated metal pipe underground detention systems meet the highest possible standards. The QMS functions to document the company's best business practices, satisfy the requirements and expectations of our customers, and improve management effectiveness.

TrueNorth Steel has been in business since 1945 and has been manufacturing corrugated metal pipe underground detention systems for over 20 years. During those 20 years we have supplied well over 200 corrugated metal pipe detention and retention (infiltration) systems.

We employ Professional Engineers registered in the states of MN and ND to support the layout and installation of these systems. Our drafting department employs current versions of AutoCAD and Autodesk Inventor to prepare our detailed submittal and fabrication drawings.

TrueNorth Steel is also a Registered Contractor in the State of MN; Contractor registration number IR678639.

The attached Corrugated Steel Pipe Underground Detention System specification details the standards to which detention and infiltration systems are manufactured and supplied.
